

Experiment Runner - Batch Execution Flow

Alternative entry: suite run --config <file> expands a YAML config into multiple single-system tasks and executes them with resumable state tracking (suite plan / run / status / cancel).

Main purpose:
execute the same question set against different systems while preserving a common result schema for later analysis.

| Field                          | Populated by                   |
|--------------------------------|--------------------------------|
| answer_text, execution_time_s  | all runners                    |
| tool_call_sequence, step_count | ACE, local CLI runners         |
| token counts                   | runners with structured output |
| CorpusSnapshot                 | isolated-corpus runs only      |